00:27:58 Rena Brower: One of our trustees has the idea that the CDC requires a library building inspection prior to our being able to open. We've never heard of this requirement. Who's correct, if you know? Thanks.

00:29:00 Michele Ryan: It wouldn't be a Zoom meeting without a cat walking across the screen Karen. lol

00:29:19 Karen Fauls-Traynor: ]

00:29:27 glenna wisniewski: I have not heard of any CDC requirement of building inspection

00:45:25 jacklynahoyt: I live on a horse farm and we had to submit the exact same type of plan before we can open again for lessons and our boarders. We have to have an entrance and egress plan, cleaning every day, etc. Everything has to be written out and posted before we can even think of opening.

00:46:28 Karen Fauls-Traynor: Midyork removed the ability to place holds while we have been closed

00:46:52 Maggie Foster: Gotcha.

00:47:05 Karen Fauls-Traynor: When we are able to reopen for curbside, they will be only be able to place holds for specific libraries.

00:49:28 Kathy Coffta Sims: I am a panelist for an event that Library Journal is sponsoring for directors around the country so I need to go. Have a good day everyone.

00:49:55 Ellie Stultz: I know that OFL has Libby on their website. What other libraries have that on their site because I have had a teacher tell me that their library did not advertise it

00:51:59 Michelle: my plan is done, all 21 pages and sent to my board for review this week and hopefully adopting

00:53:20 Katie Spires: Kitty!

00:55:54 Tmorris: You can always call me and I'll come get them :)
